THREE MEN INJURED WHEN RUNAWAY CARS SMASH FRONT END

Boy's Shouted Warning Comes Too Late to Prevent Wreck in Maryland Yard.

CUMBERLAND, Md. Jan. 27.-A run-way freight train of fifty-eight cars, sixteen loaded with coke and the balance with coal, on the Cumberland, onnellsville extension of the Western Maryland Railway caused a wreck in the Cumberland yards at 1:30 o'clock this morning. Three men were injured. They are W. M. Beeler, engineer, lacreted face and contusion on back of eck; Garrett F. Rexwood, fireman, of Dickerson Run, Pa., cut over eye, gash in back of head, badly bruised; A Groves, brakeman, Thomas, W. Va., disocated elbow, badly bruised.

The train had halted at the distance target 500 yards west of Georges Creek Junction. When the train was started a coupler pulled on the thirteenth car from the engine. The front part of the train was taken to the city junction to set off the broken car in the yards and there they waited for eastbound passenger train No. 8 to pass.

When Engineer Beeler started back for the remainder of his train he was warned by a boy at city junction that the rear end of the train, forty-three cars was running away and had then passed Georges Creek Junction. He had only time to throw his engine into forward motion when the collision occurred.

Curred.

The runaway struck the yard engine in front of central station, but the blow merely forced the yard engine and pullman ahead without a derailment. The runaway halted on the trestle at Footers Dye Works.

In every case where a man who applied for treatment had to suffer the humiliation of getting out a card and going through other red tape the system shows its faultiness.
